Funeral Service Will Be Held At Home Sunday;
Burial Here

G. V. Sharp, former Salem resident and widely known throughout Columbiana county, died at 9:10 a. m. Thursday at his home in Cleveland. He had been ill only a few days, pneumonia being given as the cause of death.

Was 73 Years Old
Born at Highlandtown, Columbiana county, about 73 years ago, Mr. Sharp engaged in business as a young man in Hanoverton and later came to Salem where he resided for many years.

He was interested financially in a wall paper store conducted by Mrs. W. D. Turner, in the Pioneer block and for a time was a stockholder in the Salem Wall Paper & Paint Co., organized by A. H. Kennedy, J. S. McNutt and L. P. Metzger as successor to the Turner store.

Later he became interested in the Union Wall Paper Co. of Cleveland and several years ago removed to that city to take a more active part in that company's affairs. At the time of his death he was president of that company, was owner and operator of the G. V. Sharp Wall Paper Co. of Cleveland and was a director of the York Wall Paper Co. of York, Pa.

Interested in Politics
In his earlier days in Columbiana county, Mr. Sharp was a part owner of the Commercial hotel in Lisbon and was engaged in various business ventures in Hanoverton and New Garden.

While still a young man he became active in politics and later became one of the Republican leaders of the county. He had continued his active interest in party affairs in Cleveland.

Surviving are his widow, formerly Miss Dora Reynolds of Salem, and one son.
The funeral service has been tentatively arranged for 2 p. m. Sunday at the home in Cleveland. Burial will be in Grandview cemetery in Salem.

British Make Part Payment on Debt; France Defaults

London's Bill $75,950,000 — Pays $10,000,000
In Silver; Action Stirs Up Congressional Discussion

By RICHARD L. TURNER
Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, June 15.—War debt installments fell due today with Great Britain paying $10,000,000 in silver on the $75,950,000 it owes. France again defaulted, Italy making a partial payment.

Weeks of patient negotiation reached their culmination in a presidential announcement of the British payment, which the London government frankly asserted to be an acknowledgment of the debt pending a final settlement.

Not a Default
Making it clear that he does "not characterize the resultant situation as a default," Mr. Roosevelt said he had granted an urgent British request for a review of its existing debt agreement and had suggested to the London government that it bring its proposals to Washington at a convenient date for discussion, the result to be laid before congress for decision.

These developments were contained in a formal note from London, an American reply, and a supplemental statement by the president, all made public last evening, simultaneously with an explanatory speech in the house of commons by Chancellor Neville Chamberlain of the British exchequer.

The congressional response was immediate and loud. In the senate, regular R-republicans challenged the development as a "breach of faith" and a "plain default on a plain promise." Administration men and Republican Independents sprang to the defense. Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, denounced the criticisms as evidence of an effort to keep congress in session to hinder the president's handling of the debt question and to impair the American delegation's influence at the London economic conference.

Await French Note
Closely watching congress and the London conference, the administration awaited a note from France declining to pay her $40,738,000 installment, and reiterating the views expressed when, last December, she first defaulted on a payment of $19,600,000.

Mr. Roosevelt already had received an informal proposal from Italy to pay only part of its $13,545,000 obligation to cover the interest due, amounting to $1,245,000. Clovenly watching congress and the London conference, the administration awaited a note from France declining to pay her $40,738,000 installment, and reiterating the views expressed when, last December, she first defaulted on a payment of $19,600,000.

Great Britain's note contended that continued payment of the debts would tend to restrain trade revival, and nullify the efforts of the London conference. It asked a review of its funding agreement and offered the $10,000,000 payment in silver on a 50 cents an ounce valuation.

Up to Congress
The American reply said the Washington government could not agree as to the relation of the debts to world trade, asserted Mr. Roosevelt had no authority to change the funding agreements and emphatically reminded Great Britain that a final decision must rest with congress.

Mr. Roosevelt's accompanying statement, in view of the recent developments at London, reassured the American flag was lauded as a symbol of patriotism, loyalty and fidelity to the ideals of America in an address given by Roscoe Sharer of Alliance at annual flag day services of Salem lodge No. 305, B. P. O. Elks, at the lodge home Wednesday night.

Sharer traced the history of the flag in his address, "Old Glory," discussing also America's participation in past wars, saying that "the American flag has never been involved in a war for expansion of territory and has always been flown on the right side."

Approximately 150 persons, including representatives of various local patriotic organizations and the American Legion color guard, attended the service, an annual event at the Elks lodge. The lodge's flag day ritual was conducted by Exalted Ruler Orrie Galbreath and officers while the flag's history was outlined by James R. Kesselmire.

Trumpet solos by Clair King, duets by Mrs. V. N. Schaeve and Arnold P. Lutes, and the Elks altar service by esquire and officers, were other features. Mrs. Ruth E. Berry was accompanist.

Sheriff Frank Ballantine and Lisbon police, provided accurate descriptions of the two men by Rogers, are investigating.

The safe was looted, Rogers said, during the noon hour while he was showing mattresses to a "buyer" who is believed to have been a partner of another man who fled with the money.

Unemployed Issue Plea For Dinners For Garden Group

Would some organization in the city be willing to sponsor the serving of one meal a day—dinner—to an average of 30 men now working on the community garden?

That is the appeal that went out today from the Unemployed League to the citizens of Salem.

The community garden is being cultivated as a means of providing food for needy people of the city next fall and winter. Groups of the needy themselves are planning and working the ground. Their midday lunch baskets are not very well filled, officers of the league said today and, as one expressed it, "It's pretty discouraging to go out in the morning, work four hours, partake of a meager lunch and then dig into the dirt for four hours more."

The speaker added that only a day or so ago he had shared his dinner with one worker who had no dinner. Several of the men, he said, walked from the gardens into Hillsdale for a little lunch at home, whatever was available for cooking and walked back again.

These men, league officers say, are doing everything possible to provide food for themselves, their wives and children for next winter. To date they have planted 4500 tomato plants, seven acres of potatoes, 10,550 cabbage plants, 185 pounds of onion sets, 25 pounds of sweet corn, 75 pounds of beets and 60 pounds of carrots.

Officers were elected by the Unemployed league at last night's meeting in the Memorial building. They are: President, Charles Wilson; vice president, J. C. Johnson; financial secretary and treasurer, Orrie Thompson; recording secretary, Louis Briskin.

The officers will be installed at the next meeting of the league.

WHEAT, COTTON TAXES PLANNED

Administration Approves Program Aimed to Help Farmers, Boost Prices

(Copyright, 1933, by Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The administration intends to raise $250,000,000 by processing taxes on wheat and cotton which it will levy at their maximum size in a bold program aimed to better long-range farm prices by cutting down production.

The government's plans provide that most of the sum will be used to reward farmers who agree to reduce their output in concert with the surplus, long a price-depressing problem for growers of the two chief crops of the United States.

President Roosevelt has approved a program devised under powers provided by the new farm act which Secretary Wallace will make public tomorrow. A comprehensive acreage curtailment program will be launched immediately for cotton to take out as much as 10,000,000 acres of the crop now growing.

No effort will be made to cut production of the wheat, now near production.

SECRETARY HULL'S SPEECH

There must have settled over delegates at the world economic conference the excitement of imminent developments of great importance as they heard Secretary Hull speak to them on Wednesday. They didn't know exactly what was coming, but each of them could guess. It was a situation full of suspense.

However, it was not Secretary Hull's speech which generated suspense. In it there was nothing to show why it had been delayed—moved from first to fifth place in the program. Many delegates did not see how any speech could be made by the leader of the United States without mentioning war debts. They expected Mr. Hull to match Prime Minister McDonald's startling reference to debts on the conference's opening day.

When the secretary's remarks had been concluded with no mention of the debts, an acute condition of suspense had been created. Mr.
Hull had been like a well disciplined man expounding a philosophy of calmness while seated on a box of high explosives. By obviously ignoring the most important subject before the conference, he had prepared the scene perfectly for a later and spectacular introduction of that subject.

Despite all this, it was a creditable reflection of his countrymen's attitude that he displayed to the delegates in London. It may be, as some have hinted, that the new secretary of state is poorly fitted for the intricate connivances of diplomacy. He is, primarily, a man of vision. In London, however, it is not vision that is steering the course of the early discussions. Cool calculation and adroit manipulation are the chief qualities on display. Mr.
Hull can speak of a tariff truce and international cooperation, but his principal listeners, however, sincerely they may agree with his point of view, are interested chiefly in the problem of war debts.
They have but one ear with which to listen to idealism and the prospectus of a world without vindictive nationalism and suicidal trade barriers. The other is occupied with news of sharp dealing and international horse-swapping. Secretary Hull, a Wilsonian dreamer, is an anachronism in his government and, to a lesser extent, in the economic conference.

What Others Say

ROCKABY BABY

Most modern mothers are taught to look upon "Rockaby Baby" as an invitation subversive to infantile health. They deplore the ignorance of grandparents who were brought up in a benighted age, and solemnly warn them to keep their hands off baby. They give thanks that their Tom or Nell has been saved from the perils of an early career in a cradle.

Most of them, however, would like to rock their babies. A good many of them probably do, when no one is looking to remind them of the rules.

If they reproach themselves for such treason to modern ideas of child-raising, here is a consolation for them. A distinguished anthropologist of Johns Hopkins rises to say that the rock-a-bye rule is the bunk. He has charts to prove it. Rocked babies are as healthy or healthier than the unrocked. And what's more, insurgent fathers who insist upon swinging their infants high in the air, are doing them no harm whatever so long as their fielding is accurate.

Here's a ruling that will spare many grandmothers from the cruel and unusual punishment of being denied a baby to rock and also give them sound authority when they want to say "rubbish" to an up-pish daughter-in-law's silly new-fangled notions.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Few figures in the comedy of city life have so mastered light-light technique as A. C. Blumenthal, the 105-pound dynamo, who gained spurs in movie theater financing. He attained first headlines by acting as host and dragoman to Jimmy Walker, in private car jaunts here and there.

Later he expressed a flair for theatrical producing, accepting temporarily Ziegfeld's toga, was "spotted" in The New Yorker, sports the longest imported limousine in town and tosses bon voyage binges for such social lights as Lady Furness. At this affair he executed his most notable coup de grace. The entertainer for the evening was Maurice Chevalier for whom Social Registries angle futilely for private parties. Yet for "Blumenthal," Chevalier sang his entire repertoire. Blumenthal is a soft spoken sprout with eyes the bright of sucked glass marbles and a bantam bravado.

Often he sits among loose-end royalty parasites, receiving their sycofanthy with tongue in cheek, and rewarding them by stuffing their stomachs. In social conquests, he suggests the humming bird over the flower. His vitality confuses his destiny, but one thing is certain, there is life in him.

I met Maurice Chevalier for the first time recently. He was gracious enough to say: "I read your article 'vogue' much." I told him how in early days of his Paris fling I thought as result of those blue and white street corner signs proclaiming simply "Maurice Chevalier" he was a street. "Not I hope," he replied, "ze forgotten byway." And, shucks, we got off one thing after another like that, no end. It was interesting that in a more serious moment he declared he was unable to sing without his straw hat. Not even a derby or silk gibus will do.

It's appropriate here, too, to swirl a cape again to the accomplished Norma Terris for her impersonation of Chevalier, even to the protruding lip and pigeon-toed walk. No performer in the past three years has revealed such progress in the art of mimicry as this wife of the Rialto physician, Dr. Jerome Wagner. By a mere touch of her auburn hair, she brings before you Marie Dressler as the hiccupy hard-ridden again in the ang-gang-gah of Bert Lahr and hosts of others.

A correspondent I do not know sends news of beautiful Annabelle Whitford, so deftly portraying the Gibson girl in the Follies. She, too, is married to a physician and lives on Chicago's north side. Although her hair is grayed she is still of distinguished beauty and charm and her life is devoted to charity in the tenements.

Thingumbobs: Charles M. Schwab is considered one of New York's best bridge players by Ely Culbertson. O Henry was freed to his toes. Beth Leary is in Biarritz until October. John Galsworthy's favorite dish was boiled mutton and cabbage. Jack Northworth's father was the church organist in Oak Lane, Pa. The Isaac Marcovsons have taken a house in Geneva for the summer.

Irvin Cobb used to go to the evening train daily to set his watch. Harrison Fisher wanted to be a professional skater. Opie Read once stored wool for higher prices and brought on a moth plague in his home town. Sargent, the portrait painter, could not look in mirrors without giddiness. One of the human clock-regulators along Park ave. is Albert Keller, controlling the destiny of Ritz hotel in America. A more than six-footer and well proportioned 250 pounder, he swings—why are all big men graceful?—down the avenue from 57th st. at exactly 5:15 p. m. and in enormous strides turns at 47th to his hotel. Pedestrians pivot with the awe of boys eyeing a champion. Neither the wind, rain nor snows have prevented this afternoon parade for 20 years.

A distinguished juckling in McComb, Miss., chides me for speaking of our bonds as defaulted. "You should know," he avers in amiable sneer, "that to finance such bonds have merely suffered impairment of negotiability because of maturity." That's swanking up thieving!

The Stars Say:

For Friday, June 16

The planetary configurations for this day point to much leeway for putting through personal projects by practical application, perseverance and sound hard work, although it may be advisable to beware of misrepresentation, fraud or ill-repute. There is much encouragement for making contracts with influential persons, who will be inclined to be responsive and cordial.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year in which their own application, industry and persistence will bear good fruit, although it is a good time for seeking arrangements with those in places of power and prestige.

A child born on this day may be talented and industrious, though perhaps prone to be showy, trivial and talkative. Notable nativity: Charles Frohman, theatrical producer.

Some Facts About High Blood Pressure.

"A little knowledge is a dangerous thing," is an old saying with modern uses. It can be applied to many individuals who have limited knowledge of blood pressure. They get excited out of all proportion to the importance of the symptoms. It happens frequently that an individual in perfect health, has slightly elevated blood pressure. This information causes great worry and unnecessary fear. Of course I do not wish to give the impression that high blood pressure is a wholly normal symptom. But I do wish to convey to my readers the thought that within certain limits, high blood pressure is in no sense a menace to life. I refer particularly to blood pressure that has gradually increased over a period of years.

In most instances the rise of blood pressure is the result of natural changes within the body. These are called "compensatory" changes and are really necessary in order that the body may continue to function as it should. For example as we grow older certain changes take place within the heart and blood vessels. The vessels lose their normal elasticity. This leads to an increase in the blood pressure.

Factors to Be Considered

When high blood pressure occurs suddenly, or is observed in fairly young individuals, it is a matter of more consequence. Fortunately, such cases are not common. Increased pressure may be the result of some infection within the body. The teeth, tonsils, nasal sinuses, gallbladder or appendix may be diseased. It may follow some constitutional disease. It is difficult to tell a person off-hand just what should be his normal blood pressure. Age, sex, mode of living and occupation, former diseases and individual makeup—all these are factors. Thin persons are more prone to have low pressure, while stout individuals usually have high blood pressure. Bear in mind that high blood pressure and low blood pressure are not diseases in themselves. They are signs of changes within the body.

Exceptions to the Rule

There is an old rule that in the average person, the blood pressure can be computed by adding one hundred to the age. Thus if an individual is thirty, his blood pressure is usually around one hundred and thirty. But, as with all other rules, there are many exceptions.

For example, one may be told his blood pressure is one hundred and forty; he learns by reading or by talking with a friend, that his blood pressure should not be more than one hundred and thirty. This disturbs him.

Such slight fluctuations in the blood pressure are unimportant, having little if any significance. Do not be confused by what laymen tell you about your blood pressure. If you are in good health, do not suffer from headaches, dizzy spells or nose bleeds, and your pressure is within the normal limits, there is no need for worry. Keep in mind that fear, anxiety, worry and emotional disturbances tend to increase the blood pressure. Calmness of mind is a blessing.

PRESIDENT'S SON, FAMILY, FLEE FIRE
 (By Associated Press)
 BYE BEACH, N. H., June 15—The family of James Roosevelt, son of the President, was staying at the home of relatives today as the result of a fire which forced them to move from their summer place.

Flames which started yesterday in an upper story gained headway before firemen from Portsmouth, Rye Beach, and North Hampton could bring them under control. Although part of the furniture was carried from the 15-room house, damage was estimated at $5,000.

Mrs. Roosevelt and her 14-months-old daughter, Sara Delano Roosevelt, were not endangered. Roosevelt hurried here from Boston, where he is in the insurance business.

After the fire there was a report—quickly denied from the White House—that threats had been made to kidnap the child, that a secret service agent had been assigned as a result of the threats, and that the fire might have been intended as a screen for kidnapers.

Stephen T. Early, presidential secretary, said at the White House that James Roosevelt had called his father and declared there was "absolutely no truth in the report."

SYNOPSIS

JULIUS BRANDT, middle-aged theatrical producer, sat in an aisle seat at the opening of a new mystery play. The seat to his right was vacant and the next beyond was occupied by Margaret Manning, famous star. Mrs. Manning's daughter, Sheila, was making her debut as a leading woman in the evening's production.

Brandt had arrived for the third act. His partner, Matthew Burton, had driven him to the theater and then gone on to a radio studio where he was to conduct a broadcast. Brandt, coarse and domineering, was at heart, cowardly. An idiosyncrasy of his was a profound fear of the dark. Naturally the house lights were turned off when the third act began. Presently it was announced that the stage lights, too, would be cut off momentarily. Brandt appeared uncomfortable.

From the darkened stage came shouts and Sheila Manning's scream of simulated terror. The stage lights flared up and a second scream came from the body of the theater. Margaret Manning, eyes dilated in horror, stood pointing down at Julius Brandt. "He's dead!" she cried. Police Commissioner Ingram seated not far away, sprang across the aisle. He found Brandt slumped down in his seat, dead, with his throat cut. Nobody was permitted to leave the theater and Lieut. Grady brought his homicide squad to the place. The district attorney also arrived and began to question witnesses. Presently Sheila Manning rushed in. Her mother tried to stop her.

CHAPTER 5

"Coming along, Sheila. Come home with me. You're so excited you don't know what you're doing. Please come."

"Just a moment, Mrs. Manning." The district attorney had risen to his feet. He slipped the dagger into a drawer.

"Did you come here to see me, Miss Manning?" He turned his gray steady eyes on the girl. He recognized the distinct likeness between mother and daughter.

"I've got to know, I've got to know if it's true." The girl's voice was coming in gasping sobs. She appeared to be on the verge of collapse.

"What have you got to know, Miss Manning?"

Mrs. Manning threw herself in front of her daughter as though to shield her. "Please let me take her home," she said quietly. "She's overwrought. I give you my word she knows nothing about it. She doesn't know what she's saying."

"What is it that you have got to know, Miss Manning?" The district attorney took no heed of the interruption.

The girl looked at him, eyes wide with anxiety.

"Is he dead? Is it true that Julius Brandt was killed tonight?" The district attorney nodded his head.

"Thank God!" Low as the whispered words were they were audible to everyone in the room. An anguished moan escaped Mrs. Manning.

"And what, may I ask, was your precise interest in the dead man?" The voice of the district attorney came to Sheila Manning from far off. She gave a wild hysterical laugh.

"I was his wife," she cried. "Julius Brandt and I were married early this afternoon."

Margaret Manning caught the girl as she fell insensible in her arms.

BROADWAY MAGNATE SLAIN AT FIRST NIGHT
Audience Horrified to Discover Blood-Soaked Corpse in Midst Julius Brandt's Head Almost Severed from Body During Last Act of New Play—Assailant Unknown—Secret Marriage Revealed During Grilling of Celebrities

Martin Ellis, author of "Phantom Fingers," looked up from the newspaper headlines he had been reading as his man servant limped into the room.

"Coffee, Sam," he said briefly. "More coffee."

"You've had five cups already," stated the small elderly man with a look of mute reproach on his face. He hovered over the untouched breakfast dishes. "Can't I fix you some bacon?"

Martin shuddered. He caught the beseeching look and managed a smile.

"Bacon?" he repeated. "Well, now in most circumstances I should say bacon by all means. When a theatrical producer has the bad taste to get himself bumped off on the opening night of your first play, for instance, I should say you couldn't go wrong on a bit of bacon."

Real Distress
When the dramatic critics ignore the brilliance of your maiden venture, not to speak of the workmanlike quality of your stagecraft, and see fit to describe, instead, the gory aspects of a corpse, there still, I should say you have a decided taste for bacon. Eat—!" he paused. The look in his eyes belied the forced flippancy of his voice. "But when the only girl that means anything to you leaps off and marries another chap behind your back, then, my lad, bacon is definitely out. There are limits, Sam, to the sedative qualities of bacon. Get me some fresh coffee."

The author sprawled back in his arm chair and groped for a cigarette.

"Is he dead? Is it true that Julius Brandt was killed tonight?" asked Sheila.

Ordinarily a young man of large and pleasing aspect, there were now furtive lines about his face and a weariness in his eyes that gave him an unnaturally haggard look. His brows contracted into a frown as he picked up one of the newspapers that were scattered about the room. Ellis, who had served his own newspaper apprenticeship, realized that the events of the night before had resolved themselves into a journalistic Paradise. From the standpoint of the press, the Brandt stabbing "had everything." All unrelated news was crowded off the front pages. Not since the murder of Stanford White had a story with such sensational angles broken in New York.

Headlines out-vied each other. Photographs of the first night celebrities stared mutely up at him: Pictures of Margaret Manning in some of her best known roles—as Juliet and Portia and Candida. A shot of Sheila Manning stepping from an airplane. Another of her selling programs at a theatrical benefit performance. Pictures of Mrs. Courtney Friede Van Leyden, reclining under a parasol at Palm Beach. Pictures of Bonnie Adare, whose wily press agent had made an early call on Park Row, as she would be seen in her forthcoming screen love saga, "College Cuddles." Pictures of "Gals" Perino. Of the police commissioner. Of Edmund Sterne and of Angelica de Milo the latter as a mature and massive "Marguerite," obliterating a goodly portion of the spinning wheel.

Glorious Display

One tabloid featured in its pink and gaudy cover a grotesque "composograph"—superimposed photographs of the group sitting in the immediate vicinity of the body. Courtney Friede Van Leyden could be dimly distinguished embellishing the front row in a polo outfit.

Another tabloid artist had excelled himself concocting a gruesome drawing to represent "Julius Brandt, following the fiendish killing in the Olympic Theater." The late producer was shown slumped back in his seat, tongue hanging out, eyes protruding horribly and fountains of blood gushing from a head that was hanging by the barest membrane to the neck below. Apparently it was only with a great deal of effort that the artist had been restrained from an impulse to show the head of Julius Brandt rolling down the aisle toward the footlights. (The author of this pen and ink exhibit was later rewarded by a bonus of $500.)

Martin's frown deepened as his roving gaze fell upon a three-column cut of Margaret Manning as Lady Macbeth grasping a dagger in her right hand. The caption below ran: "Margaret Manning, celebrated tragedienne, as she appeared in Julius Brandt's production of 'Macbeth.' There was an empty seat between Brandt and Mrs. Manning, mother-in-law of the murdered man. The police are understood to be looking for a sharp-edged dagger with which the ghastly deed was presumably perpetrated. Lieut. Grady anticipates an arrest within twenty-four hours."

The frown grew still deeper and his mouth set in a grim line as he caught sight of a feature story in "The Daily Call." It appeared under the by-line of Betty Barrett, Park Row's most sentimental sob sister, and was headed: "Sheila Plays Real Life Part; Maid, Wife and Widow in a Day."

Martin turned to the theatrical pages. In the circumstances most of the papers had contained themselves with a brief squib in lieu of a review, announcing shortly that "Phantom Fingers" by Martin Ellis, well-known author of detective stories, was the play that had been presented the night before at the Olympic Theater.

George Lansdowne, whose brilliant story of the tragedy appeared on page one of the Morning Express, had contented himself with giving a brief outline of the play leading up to the sinister darkness that had embraced two deaths—the mock killing behind the footlights, and the stark tragedy enacted simultaneously out front. His sarlone pen had woven a gripping parallel between the fact and fiction mysteries. The district attorney, the police commissioner, the great and near-great, he had cast as mimics in the development of a moving real life drama. Before noon, Lansdowne had turned down offers from three rival papers to go back to reportorial work.

Reviews Out.

The reviews of the play turned in by the two critics who had left before him had been automatically "killed" before the last editions were pressed.

To the official disregard of his first play, Ellis had already resigned himself the night before. He had reflected with a smile of cynical amusement that insofar as public interest was concerned, "Phantom Fingers" was doomed to survive only as the "X" which marked the spot where the body was found.

The Olympic Theater had been temporarily closed by police orders. The inadvisability of continuing the run of "Phantom Fingers" at some other house had been pointed out to Adolph Hertz. Considerable pressure had been brought to bear on the excitable producer who after the first shock, had collected his business wits and was all for turning the thundering storm of publicity to a definite box-office account. The ethics of such a procedure worried him not at all. It was only after it had been made plain to him that even the most ghoulishly inclined of the theater-going public would shrink from witnessing a mystery play that had produced so realistic a finale, that he had given in.

Ellis lit a cigarette and dismissed the matter of his unfortunate debut as a playwright. He had weightier problems on his mind.

He wondered whether he should call Sheila. After he had been questioned by the district attorney and furnished satisfactory evidence that during the time of the stabbing he had been sitting in full view of the stage doorman and the carpenter, he had been permitted to leave. He had driven Mrs. Manning and her daughter home and then returned to his apartment. (To Be Continued)

WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT?
LET THEM SELL CHEAP

By Arthur Brisbane
(Copyright, 1933 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

IF you thought yesterday that you understood money and "high finance," you may change your mind as you read today's cables from London about "stabilizing the dollar," "pegging the pound," etc. The United States, you are told, offered "to stabilize the dollar at a value of $4.30," which means that one British pound would be worth $4.30. Great Britain wants to "stabilize our dollar at $3.75 to the pound." Yesterday in London you could buy a British pound for $4.09, which is an improvement. The last American money needed to buy a pound, the better the better the American money.

To the average American, dollars are dollars, and lucky he who has a million of them. He cannot understand why it should be necessary to do any stabilizing.

Let Europe sell our dollars too cheap if she chooses, and regret it afterward. Why should we suddenly admit that this country, with the world's largest supply of gold is issuing inferior money?

RALPH W. MORRISON, giant cattleman from Texas, believes in talking and dressing "United States." As a delegate at the conference in London he appeared dressed in gray business clothes. Used to do so, he changed to a "stove-pipe" hat, black tail coat and striped trousers. Anything to oblige.

But signs printed in French on little cards, "Priere de ne pas fumer," meaning "Please do not smoke," left him cold. He appears daily smoking a large cigar.

An English paper was much amused when it developed that Morrison of Texas had been heard of by Dr. J. Piermont Morgan, advised friends to buy stock in "a little bank," with its entrance down two steps, in the basement of a private house on the west side of Fifth ave., just above 44th st., directly across the avenue from Delmonico's. The bank was located there for the convenience of Mr. Morgan's friends, who lunched at Delmonico's often.

Delmonico's is gone, the last Delmonico building is torn down. But the "little" Fifth ave. bank still goes marching on. Yesterday it declared a "special dividend" of $10 besides the regular dividend of the rate of $24 a year. On that occasion, the advice that Mr. Morgan gave was good.

Eleven states in succession have voted in favor of repealing the prohibition amendment. Massachusetts, the eleventh, yesterday announced her vote, one to one in favor of "no more prohibition."

Boston voted ten to one against the eighteenth amendment. Those who thought it impossible that 36 states would vote against prohibition are changing their minds.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of saline mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, smoothing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Request a substitute, 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

You don't have to tell me a thing about "Toasting"

Now, don't misunderstand me. I probably don't know just how the "Toasting" process works...but I certainly know enough about the good it does. To me my cigarette is personal, so when I light a Lucky and taste its fine, pure tobacco fragrance...when I smoke Luckies in any number and still find them cool and mild...do I have to know how "Toasting" works? Frankly, I don't care much...just so long as I can keep on saying —and mean it—"Luckies Please!"

Class A Teams Add New Players For Second Half Title Race

THE DAY IN SPORTS

FASTER BASKETBALL
RULES TO ADD SPEED

MINOR rule changes adopted last spring will make basketball a more aggressive and faster game in 1934, predicts Dr. F. C. Allen, University of Kansas basketball coach and member of the national rules committee.

"In the past the coaches and spectators have agreed that there have been too many held balls," said Allen. "The officials this next season are cautioned in the rules to permit the extra tug at the ball before calling a held ball."

"Also the restriction on the guarding of the 'post player' has been taken off and he may now be guarded the same as any other player and when there is contact between the guard and the player at the post it is a matter for the official to decide whether or not the post player was at fault in causing the contact."

"THE NEW RULES will also contain a note to the effect that the new 10-second rule found favor last season and was effective in speeding up the game. It will also be found that the 10-second rule is even more strict this year toward demanding more aggressive play and basket shooting in that the player of the offensive team, who first touches the ball or receives it after the toss up or shot for basket in the front court, is the only one of the offensive team that is permitted to pass the ball back over the dividing line into the back court."

"A note is found in the new rules aimed at too much whistle blowing by the officials. The blowing of the whistle is now eliminated after a free throw or foul."

"The campaign against booing and hissing at basketball games is recognized in a recommendation that coaches do their utmost to eliminate such demonstrations at basketball games."

"ANOTHER MINOR change which may be important in some games is one that now permits a player to tap a ball that is resting on the rim of the basket, tapping it either in or out of the basket, so long as he does not touch the basket rim. Another change aimed at making the players more relaxed in action is that which makes it mandatory for the official to stand outside of the free throw lane when a player is taking a free shot."

Dr. Allen says many coaches, like the golfers who want bigger cups, are in favor of smaller basketballs and bigger baskets. The new rules contain a note on the movement Doctor Allen says there probably will be a change in that direction within another year.

SCHAFFERS TRADE WAYNE RUSSELL TO CHICK TEAM

Other League Clubs Also Add Power; Schedule For Loop Revised

A revised Class A softball league schedule, involving nine teams following the withdrawal Wednesday of the Golden Eagle, was arranged by members of the board of arbitration at a special meeting held last night at the Memorial building.

Two Games Today
Two games are booked for this evening with the American Legion opposing the powerful Calkins Chicks in the opener at 5:30. The Famous Dairy tangles with the United Cigars at 6:30.

Today's program gives fandon a glimpse of four of the loop's strongest aggregations, each of the quartet being conceded a fine chance for the crown this round. The Chicks, through the addition of Wayne Russell, obtained in a trade with the Schaffer Billiards, are regarded especially strong.

Russell was sent to the Calkins team in exchange for Gordon Scullion and Forrest Bishop, star infielders. The improved Billiard combine showed to advantage in upsetting the championship Mullins Foremen's club, 10-9, Tuesday. The new hurler will alternate on the mound with George McFeely, one of the league's best, and will probably hurl against the Legion.

Teams Add Strength
The withdrawal of the Golden Eagle has placed on the market several good players, among them Dick Coe, who is being signed for first base by the Legion. Coe will replace George Morris, recently signed by the Hardware. Other Golden Eagle players are being signed by the Famous Dairy to give Dale Ritchie, a fine pitcher who hasn't been given a dime's worth of support all season, some more reliable backing.

Before the second round is over fans will probably have witnessed one of the hottest title races ever held here. Practically every one of the nine teams is strengthening its weak places and a better, more evenly balanced array of clubs is expected to be the result.

The Calkins team has without doubt the strongest fielding infield in the circuit, with Ted Scott at first, Harry Schaffer at shortstop, Joe Mattvey, second, and Steve Zatzko, third. This quartet is also powerful with the stick, each player having an average of better than .300 while the outfield is also better, both defensively and offensively than the average. Francis Simmons and "Cheese" Jenkins are the catchers.

Pottery Powerful
A team that is being overlooked by fans is the Salem China company, with "Giddy" Griffith, Wes Davis, the Scullion brothers, and others who can't be left out of titular consideration. Then, too, the Deming has a strong combine, Forney, Walter Deming, Theiss, Kromreich, Bill Day and may prove itself a real contender.

The Legion lacks strength at bat and is of somewhat unknown strength. On paper, however, the veterans, with Joe Kelley, Lee Christen, Wayne Siding, Charlie Quinn, Bruce Coe, Everett Rich and Mike Schuller, should finish one-two-three as they did in the first round. They obtained M. Schuller from the Billiards.

Mullins was easily the class of the circuit in early season but unless the team does as others are doing—add strength where needed—the body-makers won't be on top when the percentages are tallied later on. The setback by the Billiards proved this although, in Bob Campbell, Jim Fitzpatrick, Arthur Borton, "Judy" Myers and Cecil Scullion, the team has some of the city's best muskballers.

Hardware To Be Feared
Look over the rest of the teams: the Hardware, with Tving and Arnold Seeds, "Red" McConnel, Jim Primm, Mike Sartick, Frank Corso; the Cigars, with Jim and Elmer Smith, Ed Kennedy, Ted Schwartzoff, Earl May, Ralph Gregg; the Dairy, with Ritchie on the slab and you have some real powerful aggregations. Take your pick of the lot and place your bets.

Tackles Youthful Rival Tonight

JACK SHARKEY GENE TUNNEY MICKEY WALKER JOHNNY RISCO VITTORIO CAMPOLO

Johnny Risko, Cleveland's famed spoiler of championship aspirants, steps into the squared arena at Cleveland tonight to do battle with Patsy Perroni, 21-year-old Canton gymnasium product. Risko is a heavy favorite over the youngster.

Risko has defeated Jack Sharkey, Mickey Walker, Vittorio Campolo, George Goffey, the late Ernie Schaff, Paulino and many others and is one of the nation's ranking heavies. Perroni just recently advanced into the flistic spotlight, winning 19 consecutive engagements. His most recent win was over Frankie Simms but he has never met the caliber of opponents fought by the Rubberman.

Heads Six-Bout Card
It's Cleveland's first national in nearly ten years. It's the match dozens of promoters bid for. Harry Cohen won it and he presents it at the top of six fights. John Carroll's Alumni Association is sponsoring the program and will share in the gate receipts.

Backed by an especially attractive preliminary setup, the show may draw as high as $25,000. That would have been considered only a fair gate a few years ago, but will be sensational if it materializes tonight. A crowd of 20,000 or more is predicted.

It all depends on the weather. The weatherman predicts ideal temperature for an outdoor show.

Risko, by all means should be a favorite, but there's plenty of betting and it continues at even money.

The Rubber Man's last ring appearance was against Dick Daniels and he suffered a crushing defeat and an injured ankle. His ankle is sound now.

Perroni has been victor in his last nineteen engagements. He beat Eddie Simms in a torrid fray his last time out.

Loses Only Once
Teddy Yarosz, Pittsburgh Polish 165-pounder, who has been beaten only once in 67 professional starts, will meet the dinky Terrie Haute Slaughter, Sammy Slaughter.

Yarosz, in the opinion of many impartial observers, is the best middleweight in the country. Slaughter, until he was kayoed here by Gorilla Jones, was well on his way to the top. He fought here one other time, stopping Paul Pirone. This will be Yarosz' first start here.

The victory gave St. Louis a 2-1-2 game margin over Pittsburgh but failed to reduce New York's lead as the Giants beat the Boston Braves 8-5.

The Chicago Cubs regained their clear hold on fourth place by defeating Cincinnati 7-0 behind Charley Root's two-hit pitching and Brooklyn's Dodgers captured sixth by trouncing the Phillies, 6-3, with an eleven hit attack behind some effective flinging by Ray Benge.

Indians Swamped, 13-2
After a day in fourth place, the Cleveland Indians returned to the second division of the American league by taking a 13-2 pasting from Detroit. They dropped a few points behind the idle Philadelphia Athletics.

To complete a triumph for the second division, the St. Louis Browns turned on the Chicago White Sox, pounding out 14 hits to win 14-1 while Bump Hadley held the hose to four safeties and the last-place Boston Red Sox made it three straight over the New York Yankees, losing out eight runs in the seventh and eighth innings to win 13-5 after the Yanks had scored all their runs in the first half of the seventh.

Tee Driven Into Ball
HINGHAM, Mass.—During a golf game at South Shore Country club, John Sullivan drove a paper compound tee into his ball.

ASHTABULA—Sammy Mandell, Rockford, Ill., outpointed Ray Collins, Erie, Pa., (10); Marty McEale, Lorain, O., and Joe Brown, Erie, drew, (10).

HALLAHAN HELPS CARDS IN FIGHT FOR LOOP TITLE

Pitching of "Wild Bill" Is Big Factor In Team's Showing

(By Associated Press)
To William Anthony Hallahan, who no longer has much of a claim to his old nickname of "Wild Bill" belongs a large share of the credit for keeping the St. Louis Cardinals in the thick of the National league race.

There are plenty of other reasons why the Cards are tight behind the league leading New York Giants, but the fact that Hallahan has settled down and become about the best left hander in the National league stands out a bit above the rest.

It used to be that Bill either struck them out or walked them. This year his strikeout record isn't so high but neither has he given out so many passes and after a fine 2-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday, he stood at the head of the National league's pitchers with a record of eight won and only two lost.

The victory gave St. Louis a 2-1-2 game margin over Pittsburgh but failed to reduce New York's lead as the Giants beat the Boston Braves 8-5.

The Chicago Cubs regained their clear hold on fourth place by defeating Cincinnati 7-0 behind Charley Root's two-hit pitching and Brooklyn's Dodgers captured sixth by trouncing the Phillies, 6-3, with an eleven hit attack behind some effective flinging by Ray Benge.

Knepper Teaches Golf At Club

Salem Golf club members who desire a few more yards to that drive, a little better left to the niblick shot or per chance, two pulls instead of three or four on the greens may have the advantage of instruction in these fine points. Golf Club officials announced today that instruction during the summer will be given by Ralph Knepper, one of the outstanding marksmen among local golfers. Players may obtain appointments by calling the caddy master.

The local course, club officials say is in excellent condition and, since the advent of typical golfing weather, has been well populated.

Good Double Bill Scheduled Here Friday and Saturday

COMEDY, romance and thrills reign ace-high in the theater bill for Friday and Saturday with the appearance of "A Lady's Profession" and "Sunset Pass" at the State.

Great Cast, Good Story

In the former film we find such stars as Alison Skipworth, Roland Young, Sari Maritza, Kent Taylor, Roscoe Karns and Warren Hymer and a plot full of laughs and wit.

It is an utterly mad and delightful business—this lady's profession. As with most of the better comedies, the plot defies description.

At the beginning of the film Young and Miss Skipworth are seen as proud, if somewhat vague members of the British nobility, discovering to their discomfort that they are without funds. They decide to come to America where no one will know them—so, believing that New York had never heard of the depression and that its streets were "paved with gold" Roland sails first.

Sister and Daughter Follow

In due time Miss Skipworth follows him in the company of his daughter, played by Sari Maritza and from the moment they leave Southampton, third class, to the return voyage on the Aquatania, as first-class passengers there is not a dull moment. On arriving in America Miss Skipworth finds to her horror that her brother not only has sunk deeper into debt but that he is the proprietor of a speakeasy.

"Madame Racketeer" (Miss Skipworth) on one of the finest comedies of the screen has a role in this film which is perhaps her very best.

Young, always good and the remaining cast should make this film one of the most amusing and entertaining of the entire year.

Double Feature Bill

"Sunset Pass", Zane Grey's novel, enacted by a cast of young players ably assisted by those that knew fame in the silent film days, is the second part of the bill. Randolph Scott, Tom Keene, Kathleen Burke (the Panther Woman), Noah Beery, Harry Carey and Kent Taylor compose the list of players.

Grey's stories are always highly exciting and picture-que and this one dealing with a cattleman's association deputy who finds that the man he is tracking down is the brother of the girl he loves ought to be packed full of thrills.

TODAY'S attraction at the State is "Song Of The Eagle" with Richard Arlen, Charles Bickford, Mary Brian, Jean Hersholt, Louise Dresser and Andy Devine carrying the leading roles.

It takes the audience through two decades of American history to the present day and even giving it a glimpse into the possible future.

A Poor "Lift"

TOLEDO, June 15.—While Sheriff Dave Krieger was motoring along a highway two men hailed him for a "lift".

that under no circumstances will the United States assent to a discussion of the debts at the conference.

WHEAT, COTTON TAXES PLANNED

ing harvest. Winter-kill and bad weather have cut the prospects for this crop down to approximately domestic needs for the first time this century, although there is expected to be a carry over of about 300,000,000 bushels on July 1, beginning of the new marketing year. The wheat program, however, is to be put into effect on fall planting.

Details Completed

Wallace has completed details of both programs except for a few elements still open. One, subject to change, is the exact time the taxes will go into effect. He is authorized by the farm act to levy them at the beginning of the crop year for each community. That would be July 1 in the case of wheat and August 1 in the case of cotton. Both may be delayed until August.

The tax on cotton is expected to be four cents a pound, that on wheat, 23 to 30 cents a bushel. If prices of either drop before collection of the tax begins, the rate could be boosted while if prices rose as a result of the prospect of a smaller future supply, the tax could be smaller.
